

To develop and manage a system of national parks that represents the biodiversity, landscapes, and associated heritage assets of South Africa for the sustainable use and benefit of all.

South African
NATIONAL PARKS

Philemon 'Mambrrr' Chauke: 'Mambrrr' was a Research Assistant for Scientific Services for many years in the Kruger National Park and was based in Skukuza. Chauke (or 'Mambrrr' as he was affectionately known) was involved in most of the projects involving field work, and was well known by many Kruger based and visiting scientists. He was a great character, much loved by those who knew him. He was killed in a car accident in 1984 while assisting Dr Ian Whyte with the field work for his Master of Science degree. He was self appointed guardian of Ian's children when they joined him in the field on school holidays and weekends.
